THE CHRISTIAN'S HOPE
LESSON TEXT—John 14:1-6; Revelation 21:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—In my Father's house are many mansions.—John 14:2.
Hope is something this world desperately needs, and which it has all but abandoned. Little wonder when one considers that the usual meaning of hope is merely more than "wishful thinking" without any real confidence—and that such hope as men have, has been only in their fellowman, who have so often grievously failed them.
The Christian's hope—all that is something quite different. It stems entirely from God's own revelation in the assured Word of God. Such a light only shines brightest in the darkness deepens. As the lights of men's promises and purposed fizzle out, the light of God's people shines like a beacon in a dark and stormy night.
How appropriate that we should use the last Sunday of this year to turn the lamp, as it were, for even brighter shining, as we turn its beams out into the unknown year just ahead. There are three great and helpful things in this lesson:
I. A Sure Promise of Heaven (John 14:1-3).
We are not forgetting that for us who love the Lord there is the blessed hope of His return. He is coming again (v. 3). But whether we have the joy of being caught up to be "ever with the Lord" or by way of death, we have a sure promise of the eternal dwelling place which He has prepared for us.
"Let not your heart be troubled"—the very words come like the balm of Gilead upon our restless, troubled lives. Faith in God and in Christ—there we have the sure anchor of the soul. He has promised. We cannot count His faithfulness if we show our faith in our fellowmen by trusting their word, even though they often fail us. Shall we not then fully trust the omnipotent, never-failing God?
II. A Safe Way to Heaven (John 14:4-6).
Our Saviour has not just gone before and bade us follow as best we may, but He is Himself the Way. Having Christ, we have the way. Observe that He does not say that He is the "way-shower," as one religious system names Him. He is not just an example, or the master-teacher, or a martyr to a holy cause. He is "the way, the truth, and the life."
Note, too, that no man comes to the Father but by Christ. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith points out that the apostle Paul in his epistles constantly emphasizes the truth that we have access to the Father only through the Lord Jesus Christ (Rom. 5:2; Eph. 2:18, 3:12; Heb. 7:25, 10:19-21). Jesus is not one way to God; He is the only way to God. Men cannot come to God through anyone, but only through Christ."
Someone may say, "That's very true, and wonderful. I am a Christian, and I have Christ who is the way. But what is heaven like?"
III. A Symbolic Picture of Heaven (Rev. 22:1-5).
First of all there is "life"—the river of life, the water of life. In heaven there is no death, but only eternal life, blessing, peace, and joy. In this world man lives under the constant shadow of death as the enemy which hurts, destroys, and reminds him of sin. But in heaven all is life through eternity.
"When we've been there ten thousand years
Bright as the sun
We've no less days to sing God's praise
Than when we first begun."
Then we have what Dr. A. C. Gaebelein calls "the seven glories of the redeemed" (vv. 3-5). Let us enumerate them. (1) "No curse"—perfect sinlessness. (2) "The throne of God and of the Lamb shall be therein"—giving perfect and blessed government forever. (3) "His servants shall serve him"—in perfect, unhindered, untiring service. Heaven will not be idleness (perish the thought!), but blessed and happy service for God. (4) "They shall see his face"—an eternal, undimmed vision of God. (5) "His name shall be on their foreheads"—speaking of eternal ownership, possession. (6) "There shall be night no more"—God is the light throughout eternity. No more darkness to fear. (7) "They shall reign forever and ever." Few of us would resign in this world, for that brings only sorrow and trouble, but to reign with Him, that indeed will be eternal blessedness.
So then we have—as a sure promise of a heaven to which we have a safe way, and concerning which we have such blessed knowledge. But what good is the promise if we do not accept it? What good is the way if we do not receive Him? What good is there in knowing about heaven unless we are going there? "Everybody talks about heaven, ain't going there" sings the folk song. Are you? Or are you only going to talk about it?

Pacific Bases Show Progress

Navy Reports Alaskan and Island Program Keeps Up With Expansion.

WASHINGTON.—As tension in the Pacific continues to grow, the navy states that "outstanding progress" on the construction of Pacific island and Alaskan bases and shore establishments designed to service the navy's sea and air forces has been reported by its bureau of yards and docks.

"In short," the navy said, "the new Pacific bases program is keeping well apace of the general expansion program of the navy in building up the nation's two-ocean navy to the greatest army of sea power the world has ever seen."

Asserting that the base construction program is "in many places far ahead of progress originally hoped for in their construction," the statement added that the programs for construction of an air base on Midway island was completed "far ahead of schedule" and that "considerable expansion" is under way. About $24,000,000 was involved in this single project, the statement said. The statement continued:

Show Real Speed.

"Exceptional speed was made in the development of Alaskan air bases at Sitka, Kodiak and Dutch Harbor.

"The original program at Kodiak is substantially completed, although original surveys were not made until September, 1939, and construction started early in 1940.

"The size of this base has been greatly increased and additional construction providing for enlargements over the initial program is proceeding satisfactorily regardless of rigorous winter conditions of the location. The additional construction has been planned so as not to interfere with the use of sections of the base already completed.

Shows Progress.

"Development of the air base at Sitka is even further along than at Kodiak. Likewise, progress has been satisfactory at Unalaska. Necessary barracks and recreational facilities for personnel have been erected and occupied. Extensive recreational facilities have been provided for men stationed in these points where the normal diversions of continental posts are lacking.

"Another project on which outstanding progress has been made is the great drydock at Pearl Harbor. The dock is 'in the dry' and basically complete. The great dock will take any of the navy's battleships or aircraft carriers.

"The Kaneohe air base on the island of Oahu is in operation and enlargements are now being carried forward.

"Satisfactory progress is being made at Palmyra and Johnston islands."

Fishermen to Warn Of Coming Storms

California Will Get Data Now Denied by War.

SAN DIEGO.—Wartime regulation of radio transmission from ship to shore has left southern California vulnerable to surprise attacks of unseasonable weather from south of the border, Meteorologist Dean Blake revealed.

For years southern California and San Diego county in particular, has depended on scattered weather reports from ships navigating in the Pacific along the coast of Lower California and Mexico for advance warnings of approaching storms.

Since the war started these reports have become almost nonexistant, and consequently, southern California meteorologists don't get a very clear picture of weather conditions at sea.

There is a possibility that a tropical hurricane might approach to within a few hundred miles of the California coast and even hit the coast and cause considerable damage to property before sufficient warnings could be given to mariners and coastal cities.

To remedy the situation, Blake has called on the owners, operators and navigators of San Diego's large fleet of long-range tuna boats to have their radio operators send periodic reports of the weather as they cruise over the fishing banks along the Mexican coast, sometimes as far south as the Galapagos islands on the Equator.

Blake has assigned C. Eugene Shepherd, his first assistant and junior meteorologist, to take charge of contacting and training the tuna fleet weather observers.

The fishermen will report the speed, intensity and position of tropical hurricanes, as well as the movement of tropical air aloft during the winter, Blake said.

Defense Plan of 1777 Is Revealed by Dredges

PHILADELPHIA.—Dredges working on the Delaware river have uncovered an ingenious but unsuccessful defense planned by George Washington to protect Philadelphia from the British in 1777.

The dredges and shovels, used in a reclamation project by an oil concern, first began to bring up ironsmouted poles sunk in the river bed in rock-weighted wooden pens.

Officials consulted an old map of the city and learned that the course of the Delaware had changed somewhat since the days of the Revolution. They also discovered that the poles apparently were a network of chevaux-defrise, a protective line of iron spikes, which the defenders of the city strung across the river to keep the British ships from moving up the channel.

During high tide this line of spikes was under water and any English ship approaching did so at the risk of having its bottom torn out. The "spikes" were 33 feet long, and placed in the boxes at 45 degree angles, pointing down the river. A channel was left for American ships to clear and a long chain was stretched across at the channel point.

Newly Formed Air Force To Test Warning Service

WASHINGTON.—The war department announced that the newly formed air force combat command would carry out large-scale operations along the eastern seaboard to test the "alertness and effectiveness" of the air raid protection system.

The department said that thousands of volunteer civilian workers would co-operate with the aircraft warning service at strategic points in the area as part of the maneuvers.

Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the combat command, will direct the activities of the first interceptor command with headquarters at Mitchel Field, Long Island.

Small Device Will Solve Difficult Logarithms

DALLAS, TEXAS.—Small enough to be carried in the coat pocket yet able to solve the most difficult logarithms or the most complicated calculus problem in a few seconds, the planimeter is the device used by the Agricultural Adjustment administration to measure acreage.

The instrument, first made in Germany but now manufactured in the United States, resembles a pair of dividers. One point is placed on an aerial map of the land to be measured. The second point then is moved around the boundary line of the land in question until it meets the first point. The machine then registers the numbers of acres encompassed.

Great Salt Lake

Great Salt Lake, which a railroad crosses on a bridge 24 miles long, is 75 miles long and 31 miles wide. Bathers cannot sink, for the content of water is 22 per cent salt.

Principal Bridge of Venice

The Rialto, principal bridge of Venice, was built of marble in 1590 at a cost of more than $500,000.

To All My Friends in Appomattox, Buckingham, Charlotte and Cumberland Counties, I wish a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.
